

Motherhood Content

1. God got a sense of humor because my kid got an attitude bigger than me.
2. Does your house ever look like your playing Jumaji?
No just mine, ok
3. I don't even remember what it's like to go to the bathroom alone.
4. It's funny how much you take silence for granted.
Unless you have small kids than silence is almost always trouble happening.
5. It's not really fair that my kids get to whine all day and I have to wait till they go to bed for me to wine.
6. Why are toddlers like really drunk adults? They have poor balance, they don't make sense, they are emotional, they always want something and they crap their pants.
7. I used to never get sick. Then again I used to never have someone sneeze directly into my eyeballs before either.
8. Target like mom meet up spot. Just walk in, grab a coffee in your lulu's, running shoes and walk up and down the aisles until your drinks are gone and then you leave with $100 worth of stuff you didn't plan to buy.

9. When you hide what you're really eating in a plain bag of potato chips so you don't have to share.
10. When you hear the baby crying but you and your husband have a competition to see who can fake sleep better than the other so you don't have to get up.
11. Mom, Wife, Boss
12. #momlife
13. Mommin ain't easy
14. I don't want to sleep like a baby, I just want to sleep like my husband.
15. I'm not like a regular mom, I'm a cool mom
16. #dogmom
17. At bedtime my children turn into dehydrated philosophers who need a hug
18. I let my kids follow their dreams, unless I already paid the registration fee on their last dream, then they follow that for 6-8 more weeks
19. When can we come see the baby? 4 am would be super helpful. Thanks
20. Yes, please get a new cup every time you need a drink, said no mom ever!
21. Dads on the couch and I'm in the bathroom, but I'd love to open your snack. Even if you did walk right past him.
22. I'm a good mom but I drop an occasional F-Bomb.

23. I'm more of an amazon mom.
24. If you absolutely need to get your child's attention, just sit down and look completely comfortable.
25. Now I understand why momma bears porridge was cold, she was busy serving everyone else.
26. Yes Karen, I am wearing my 4 day unwashed hair in a bun again, and the outfit I wore yesterday. You're lucky I got dressed at all.
27. When you're shopping with tired and hangry kids. May the odds be ever in your favor.
28. My eyeliner isn't the only thing I'm winging. Totally winging dinner, this mom thing, marriage. Lawd help me.
29. When you're a mom you can bring out the rolodex and grab the "I brought you into this world and I can take you out of it." Line your mom used to tell you.
30. Why do I even have a laundry hamper? My kids and husband treat it more like a game of horseshoes. Just throw it all around it, but never in it.
31. Being a stay at home mom is fun. I get to watch first hand what my kids do, and half of the time I'm whispering WTF to myself. Cause i'm gonna have my hands full when they hit those teenage years.
32. Who needs superheroes when there are moms.
33. Sometimes I open my mouth and my own mom comes out.

34. My favorites call me mom
35. Mom life is the best life
36. Thou Shall not try me-Mom 24/7
37. Moms don't yell. We simply speak in a manner in which the other kids can hear clearly.
38. Sometimes I clean and I clean. Because I have kids I go back to the first room I cleaned, and I clean it again.
39. You're not really a mom until you're singing a Daniel Tiger song when the show is not on.
40. Everything is messy! My kids, my house, my car, my hair, my nails. #Blessthismess
41. Hey you! Yes you! You got this, and you are doing a great job!
42. My kids could go play with their friends, instead they would rather watch other kids on Youtube.
#icanteven
43. My sons have a magician's talent. As soon as we get home their clothes just seem to disappear.
44. Being a parent is kind of like trying to fold a fitted sheet, nobody really knows what they're doing.
45. I had someone ask me what it's like being a parent? I told them you know those medical prescription ads you see on tv where everyone looks happy but the list of side effects plays throughout the whole comercial? kind of like that.

46. I left the room for 2 minutes...it's always the start to a great story involving kids.
47. Why do my kids suddenly develop an appetite and seem parched like they just walked through the desert when I tell them it's time for bed?
48. I never knew I could ruin my kids by telling them to keep their shoes on.
49. How is it possible to cry and be that upset because you got the green cup instead of the purple one?
50. Name one thing more frustrating than dealing with a mini you that has the same smart Alec attitude. Don't worry I'll wait.
51. I read somewhere that women speak twice as many words as men. If that's true then little kids are in a league of their own because I got all that by lunch time.
52. When I was young my mom punished us by making us play inside. I punish my kids by making them play outside.
53. What's it like being a parent? Well, there's a lot of peeing, and messy poops.
54. You know who has the best advice on how to raise kids, and how to get them to do certain things? People who don't have any kids at all.
55. Why is taking care of a toddler like watching a drunk adult?

56. I've actually learned some things from my kids, mainly how much patience I have.
57. Nothing says parenting like trying to spank your kids blindly in the backseat going down the road.
58. Making your kid laugh is so much fun, until it loses all its fun and they beg you over and over and over again to keep going.
59. If you ever want your secrets told to complete strangers then make sure your kids know them.
60. One of the hardest things about being a parent is having to act mad when your kids do something bad but funny.
61. My kid whispers like he's screaming into a microphone for a cover band.
62. Have you ever had to apologize to a stuffed animal before because it was sleeping on the floor and stepped on it? Well, I have. #Momlife
63. My daughter really needs a sibling because I'm tired of playing with her 24/7. It's like she has no toys.
64. When your kids can't spell and you need to converse with your spouse about a certain activity or food to give your kids you spell it out. #noshame
65. When I tell my kids I will do something in a minute I'm secretly hoping they will get distracted by something else.

66. Man I was so much better of a parent telling other parents how to parent.
67. The only thing that takes longer than the DMV is a kid telling a story.
68. Life is Ironic, first we encourage our kids to walk and talk. Once they do we just want them to sit down and be quiet. #wellplayedlife
69. Threatening your kids that you're going to turn the car around when you're halfway to your destination if they don't start acting right.
70. Laundry is never ending, unless you go naked for a few days.
71. Does anyone else have 2 hampers? One for your dirty clothes, and another for the clothes that look dirty but are actually clean. You're just too lazy to fold and put them away? Just me? Ok.
72. If I need some time to use the bathroom I just stick my kids in front of the TV and put on something with no commercials.
73. I knew being a new mom I would be tired. But no amount of telling, and preparing for just how tired I actually am. #dontknowtillyouknow
74. A good parent is somewhere between stop that and I kind of want to see what happens.
75. Toddler take 2 hrs to eat dinner you made but give them a phone and they've surfed youtube. Invested in stocks, deleted 5 apps, messaged random people gibberish, friended people on facebook and called your work in less than 2 minutes.

76. The struggle of being a parent is negotiating with your kid to eat, but they don't want to because you didn't put enough jelly on a pb&j, then you put too much, you didn't cut it up, now you cut it up too small.
77. With kids you come to find out that anything and everything becomes a tissue for them. Including the dog.
78. Anyone else decided to just bathe your kids and hose them off when they are already playing in the water? Must just be then.
79. Bribing your kids to eat a few more bites is an unwritten rule of parenting. That actually works.
80. I really wanted my back tickled the other day while I was laying out in the backyard. So I gave my kids a paintbrush and some water and told them to paint on my back. It was a good 30 minutes.
81. I've grown to like kids more than adults. I've never had an adult ask me what my 3rd favorite planet is.
82. My kid will question you about what you're doing more than the police would.
83. You know your a mom when you need a vacation from your vacation

84. When you get to make a Target trip alone, you take 3 long hours to walk up and down every aisle.
85. I swore I would never let my toddler eat candy....and then it came time to potty train and now that's all she eats.
86. When you tell your kids your drink is medicine so that you don't have to share. That's real life.
87. Being a mom is the hardest but most rewarding job in the world
88. Any woman can be a mom but it takes a special woman to be a mother
89. Mom: A title just above Queen.
90. Mothers hold their child's hand for a moment and then their hearts for a lifetime
91. How many moms out there count to 3 and then call for dad to come spank? Nobody wants to be the bad guy
92. I was normal 3 kids ago
93. Surviving motherhood one sip of coffee at a time
94. It's funny how being a mom has taught me the difference between different types of screams and cries.
95. Watching your kids get themselves into situations you know they can't get out of unless you help them. Sometimes it is hilarious.

96. Nobody warned me how much I would change after I had kids.
97. When I was younger sleeping in was anything after 11. Now that I am a mom, sleeping in is anything after 8.
98. Being a teacher there's always that one kid you want transferred out of your class. Then you remember your homeschool and that one kid is yours.
99. I love having kids. It means I can get my house cleaned weekly for pennies on the dollar and call it chores; paid in allowance.
100. My life is 100% more joyful raising tiny people.
101. Morning cuddles with my kids are the best way to start my day.
102. When my children say "I love you". For no reason melts my heart.
103. Please tell me I'm not the only mom with 1.2 million photos of my kid on their phone?
104. Luckily my kids haven't noticed the goldfish we bought a year ago hasn't grown one but since we brought it home. That's because this is the 5th one we replaced.
105. Our dog died unexpectedly. We told our kids we took him to a farm to live. They have asked us every weekend to go visit the farm.

106. We're trying to teach our kids life lessons. But all they wanna know is how many marshmallows they can stick in their mouth and still talk.
107. We bought our kids a pet that they begged us for, we thought it would be good to teach them responsibility. So far my husband has been the one who has learned the responsibility. #parentfail
108. My son is just like my husband. If he wears anything white or anything that has white on it. You can bet your last dollar that some sort of stain will find its way on to that white.
109. I picked my son up from school today. I didn't even get a hello. Just, can I have some money?
110. Being a mom I've really been able to hone my cleaning craft. Because everyday there's a new mess.
111. I'm a mom and my OCD, I mean hobbies include. Cleaning repeatedly, washing and folding clothes repeatedly, watching the same show repeatedly.
112. My husband came home from work and asked why dinner wasn't ready, I was home all day? I looked at him and asked why my new house wasn't being purchased. You were at work all day?
113. One of my kids said when they go to college they are gonna get a degree in philosophy. First of all I didn't even know they knew what that was. But I asked do you know the difference between 2 large pizzas and a philosophy degree? They said no. I said 2 large pizzas can feed a family of 5.

114. I caught my daughter asking Alexa for answers to her homework. I don't know whether to punish her or applaud her resourcefulness.

115. My friends are wishing for a vacation. I'm just wishing for kids that listen when I call them.

116. I had a friend recently ask me what the hardest part of being a parent was? I said the kids?

117. I wish I was as bold as my son sometimes. I said don't step one foot out of your room. I came to check on him and he's laying out into the hallway but his feet are still in his room.

118. A toddler is the only person who will look you in the eyes, smile and laugh about doing what you just told them not to do.

119. Whoever said nap while the baby naps has clearly never had children

120. I feel old now that I'm a mom. Because I'm constantly yelling "what" from another room.

121. My husband wants me to go to the gym with him. But I just lift the baby a lot and in different ways, and that's all I need. #healthy

122. Can someone please explain to me why getting one good family photo is so hard?

123. It finally hit me once I started spending my own money. My mom was right all those years ago, we do have food at home.
124. Little moments when my son falls asleep in my arms. I will always cherish those times.
125. No i'm not where I wanted to be in life yet, My body does not look like it once did. You know what? It's all ok! You're killing this mom thing too.
126. Don't measure your husband or kids' values by your values.
127. It's really sad to think we raise our kids to leave us.
128. Teaching our kids to plan fun, and enjoy life is just as important as working hard.
129. It breaks my heart having to watch kids learn to walk through hard things in life.
130. I spent so much money on these awesome gifts I thought my child would love and they just wanna play with the wrapping paper and the box it came in.
131. Boy moms unite! Because it's crazy around here.
132. Being a boy mom i've learned that anything can be turned into a gun.
133. I'm somewhere between trying to feed my family a healthy dinner and Mac N cheese everyday.
134. I love playing with my kids because it encourages them to be themselves and I learn a lot about them.
135. I'm a mom, I'm a worrier, and I'm a warrior!

136. I'll never forget being 9 months pregnant and someone commenting about my pregnancy glow. No Becky. That's just sweat.
137. When I first became a mom it took a couple of weeks before it sunk in. It just didn't feel real.
138. Nothing smells as good as a newborn.
139. You win if you can make them laugh...give it a shot.
140. Don't believe the lie "I'm ruining my kids life"
141. Great moms who nurture, choose to show up everyday. They are present and make life fun for their kids.
142. Raising a tween is a hell of a ride. One minute you're their best friend and the next they hate you.
143. Bribing my sons to go shopping with me so they won't complain. Their future wives will thank me.
144. I love being a mom! We get to learn together and grow together.
145. My kids will emulate what I do more than what I say. Sometimes that scares me.
146. It's easy to treat our kids like a pack. Especially when you have a lot of them, it's important to make sure they get your undivided attention.
147. It's really important in this mothering thing that we don't get caught up comparing our kids with anyone else's kids.

148. Hurray for big families! Our tables are always full of life and laughter.
149. I wonder how long my kids will let me dress them the exact same on Christmas morning?
150. Sometimes children are so different from us, the only way you know for sure they are yours is that you gave birth to them.
151. I have to remind myself that playing with my kids is just as important as educating them.
152. Motherhood isn't something to just check off my list. It is a very high calling.
153. Being a mom I've learned it's important to show my kids they can enjoy life in the midst of the difficult things.
154. I'm thankful that each of my kids is made differently.
155. I wonder what my kids will be like as adults. Meet their spouses and experience a different dynamic to our relationship.
156. I have abs they are just laying under a thick layer of skin that birthed kids.
157. If your worried about being a good mom, that means you already are one
158. Moms are the only one who know the true meaning of 24/7
159. I am not a night owl or an early bird, I am some form of permanently exhausted pigeon

160. Being a mom has made me so tired but extremely happy
161. It takes a strong mom to be a dad too
162. One minute you can imagine your life without them. The next you're calculating the years till their 18.
163. When your kid tells you they set their alarm 15min early to have extra snuggle time. #meltedheart #motherhood
164. ATTENTION: I love being a mom, that is all.
165. When I first had kids I didn't think I could love them anymore. But I've learned that I have fallen more and more in love with them the more they grow.
166. There is something special about your first kid. They are the ones that made you a mom.
167. I'm not a perfect mom, but I give it all I got. Sometimes I have to apologize to my kids.
168. I believe one of the best things you can do is have your kids in pairs, either twins or with a minimal age gap.
169. My 7yr old asked me for a wedding cake for their birthday! So we had wedding cake for their birthday!
170. It's a good day at home being a housewife and mom when the amazon delivery arrives. It's just like Christmas

171. Sometimes motherhood is walking into a hurricane Katrina sized mess. Turning around and walking away from it like you never saw it.
172. My husband thought he was gonna get lucky when the kids went to bed. But the bed was the lucky one, because I climbed on top of it and went to sleep.
173. Motherhood is nothing more than getting up repeatedly after just sitting down 10 seconds ago.
174. Being a mother I find that I smile and cry a lot more at the same time. Anybody else?
175. I'm never sure how to honestly answer people when asked what my hobbies are? I wanna say, Karen I enjoy going to the bathroom alone. Instead its underwater basket weaving. It's my go to answer.
176. Anything but what I have to cook sounds good for dinner.
177. Always trust your mom instincts.
178. You may not be the best mom. But you are the best mom for your children.
179. Sometimes you have to let your kids experience the pain of bad decisions.
180. I will correct my kids in private. But please believe I will stand up for them in public; even if they are in the wrong.
181. Motherhood has taught me I can do 78% of things one handed.

182. I've come to the conclusion that cleaning up the house while my kids are here is like brushing your teeth with chocolate.
183. Sometimes when I talk, I swear it's their grandma talking.
184. I'm at the part of pregnancy where if anything falls on the floor it's no longer important.
185. Being a mom has taught me I'm so much stronger than I realized. Especially when I have to be strong for my kids.
186. I whisper to myself "I'm gonna miss this" as I pull a pair of flushed underwear out of the toilet and then slip on a hotwheels.
187. Shout out to all the working moms. Who come home from working all day and still find time to play with their kids, help with homework, check email, help with homework and wake up and do it all over again the next day.
188. You might be a mom if you're just glad it's not your kid screaming in the store.
189. May your coffee be strong and your kids naps be long
190. I have 2 favorite things. Being with my kids, and wishing I was not with my kids. It's hard out here sometimes.

191. I've come to find that a lot of homework is life just testing me to see if I remember what I learned in the 4th grade.
192. It is true not all heroes wear capes. I mean my hair has been in a bun and I've successfully worn the same pair of leggings all week.
193. When you fake sleep to help your child fall asleep. Then you wake up next year from your nap.
194. Mom jeans and a sweater with some white shoes. My kids picked out my outfit and actually did really good.
195. I never thought as a mom I'd wear a one piece bathing suite. But thank God things come back in style cause I've never felt more confident at the pool.
196. I mean I shared my body with a child who won't even share their cookie with me.
197. I needed to give my daughter some medicine but she wouldn't take it. So I cut out a hole in an empty juice box and stuck it in there and it was the easiest way I've ever given medicine.
198. Sharing a bed with a toddler is like being in a UFC fight.
199. You know what Susan did love to get together some time. But I just checked my kids schedule and they are busy doing anything else.

200. I've got to tell my kids Santa isn't real. If I hear one more time how Santa gets to eat cookies for dinner I lose my mind.